The invitation to lecture was conveyed in a letter written to Mr. Semmes by Darwin C. Pavey, representing the post mentioned.

MOBILE, January 31, 1874. Mr. Darwin C. Pavey, Grand Army of the Republic:

Dear Sir,-I am complimented by your invitation to lecture in Rome, N. Y., in aid of the fund to procure tombstones for deceased United States soldiers who lost their lives in the late war between the States. And you are kind enough to assure me that the people of Central New York would treat me with hospitality. I thank you and them, and I see no reason why, as citizens of the same country who have had a good rough- tary. Eleven men and six ladies. and-tumble fight, we should not make peace and be friends when the fight is over, especially as the fight has had the effect to in- tary. Eighteen men and ten ladies. crease the respect which the one had for the other. As soldiers, at least, we can meet on common ground. The living soldier always mourns the dead one after the heat of the fray is over, even though the dead one may have died by his hand. Soldiers are not statesmen, to decide the right and wrong of a quarrel. Their duty is to their general and their flag. Human nature was exalted and adorned during our late war by many noble soldiers on both sides, and a true soldier cannot but drop a tear over all such who lost their lives in the quarrel; and I trust that the time is not far distant when our children, at our firesides, will read the thrilling and romantic story of the deeds of their ancestors without pausing to ask themselves, when they come to the story of a true knight, whether he wore the "blue or the gray." It should be enough for them to know that he was an American citizen and a true soldier. Nothing would give me greater pleasure assure you, than to make the acquaintance of my fellow-citizens of Central New York, but I shall have to deny myself the pleasure for the present for want of the requisite leisure. your kind invitation, I am, very respectfully, RAPHAEL SEMMES. yours, &c.

TREASURE TROVE. - The Washington Chronicle of the 17th says:

A few months since a farmer residing on the Potomac river, a short distance below Mount Vernon, and whose name has a military prefix, thinking our banks were becoming "shaky," concluded to take from one of them the snug little sum of $5,000, which he had deposited a short time previous. Finding that so large a sum in the country was consultation with his wife, when it was agreed on the farm which was scarcely ever travelled, and where no one would be likely to them. - Fredericksburg Star. find it. So, in the darkness of night, with pick and shovel in hand, they proceeded to a beautiful spot under a tree, and after digging a hole about two feet in depth "deposited" the amount, composed of money and Government bonds. Little did they think, however, that their manœuvres were being watched by their overseer, named Jesse Pollette, who, after the owner and his better half had left the farm for Washington, concluded that the "fertilizer" was entirely too much for the soil. Accordingly be dug it up, and hearing that a fair exchange could be made in Newark, Ohio, he started with his wife, Mary, on a Western tour. He got as far as this city, and after registering his name and that of his wife at one of our fashionable hotels suggested a promenade in order to view the city of beautiful distances; but scarcely had he Detective Coomes, who extended to him a pressing invitation to accompany him to T. MR. SUMNER'S CONDITION AFTER BEING CANED .- In the course of Dr. Brown-Scquard's lecture on "Nervous Diseases," deivered in Boston on Saturday evening last, he thus alluded to his experiences with the dead senator:

"When Mr. Sumner first came under my smang the sheep in some parts of our cour- care he was suffering from a derangement of One man who had a large flock lost, as some fibres of the nerves. He had another trouble of the same nature as regards external appearances, but occupying another portion of the spine, and causing other symptoms. It was a sprain at the level of the last dorsal vertebræ. The irritation there was intense, and any motion was extremely hard. When he walked he had to push forward his right foot and then his lett, holding on all the while to his back with both hands to relieve the pain. It had been thought that he was paralyzed as to his lower limbs; it had been thought that he had a disease of the brain, and that was regarded as being the cause of the paralysis of the lower limbs. Fortunately the discovery made with regard to the vaser-motor nerves led me at once to find that he had no disease of the brain and no paralysis. He had only an irritation of the voso-motor nerves at their exit from the THE NEW CIVIL-RIGHTS BILL .- The bill, it and a special grand jury was convened in is understood, as agreed to by the Republicase of James L. Reynolds. Owing to can members of the committee, is apparently absence of three important witnesses for very nearly as elaborate and comprehensive as the original bill introduced by Mr. Sumlo-day. Information having been re- per, retaining among others the jury clause Mr. Carpenter consents to the report of the committee, although holding to the opinion that the jury clause is not constitutional. Although the bill is apparently as complete as that of Mr. Sumner's, the privileges sought to West Virginia. The western line of this to be conferred are not so clearly defined, and the bill, it is said, when brought to the ties were sent in pursuit of the fugitives test of judicial scrutiny may be subject to with the hope that they might be induced to different interpretations. Those who are up to the mark of Mr. Sumner will doubtless, however, attempt to remove all obscurities. Mr. Edmunds, the chairman of the Judiciary Committee, is now travelling South for his health, and the discussion on the bill will be delayed a reasonable time to await his return. Messrs.
